This course covers a detailed account of differences in types of grieving including cultural and complex aspects. This course covers history of grief treatment, DSM-5-definition of grieving and complex grieving, and effects of grieving on the brain. SFBT techniques that can be utilized in the PCP for children, adolescents, and adults. Contraindications for use of SFBT for SMI individuals.

Training Objectives:

- To assist clinicians in understanding different types of grieving.
- To clarify differences between grieving, complex grieving, and depression.
- To utilize Solution Focused Brief Therapy techniques in the person-centered plan, of individuals with the intellectual capacity to benefit from this type of intervention.
